

Les Gold, Aerospace Education Specialist, NASA Kennedy Space Center

EDUCATION:

Master's Degree in the Natural and Applied Sciences from Oklahoma State University, Stillwater, Oklahoma;
Bachelor's of Arts degree in Earth and Environmental Science from Queens College, City University of New York.

PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS:

National Science Teachers Association (NSTA);
National Association Of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM);
International Technology Education Association (ITEA).

EXPERIENCE:

Present: Education Specialist
Aerospace Education Service Project
Pennsylvania State University
University Park, PA (Contractor)

For more information about NASA AESP visit:

<http://www.nasa.gov/education/aesp>

Past: Science and Mathematics Seattle Hebrew Academy and Hamilton Middle School
Seattle, Washington
Earth Science, General (Science, Biology, Physics and Oceanography,
Richmond Hills High School, Queens, NY

CURRENT ASSIGNMENT:

Kennedy Space Center, Florida

Responsible for conducting workshops for teachers and administrators in schools, colleges and universities and programs for students in schools within Florida, Georgia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands